CASCADE, Iowa - Cascade Mfg. Co.'s Pleasantville plant is set to launch production.

The Cascade-based company will hold a ceremonial "log-cutting" for the wood truss production factory on Thursday.

Company officials say the plant is expected to hire 22 people in its first year, and employ as many as 50 workers within three years. Cascade Mfg. Co.'s headquarters in Cascade employs 200 people, and another facility in Eldridge, Iowa, has a work force of 50 employees.

The company produces truss components used for residential, commercial and agricultural construction projects in the Midwest.
