A Big Thank You!

We would like to thank the many people who stopped at our booth during the recent Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa lumber dealer trade shows. From conversations, there is plenty of optimism for a good start to the spring construction season. Now, all we need is a return to "spring-like" temperatures and weather conditions!

Numerous people expressed interest in the new company Infrastructure Technology Solutions and the services of providing technology consulting, disaster recovery planning and online data backup. A phrase expressed frequently was, "I didn't realize how important this is—but I do now!" If you have any questions on the topic of disaster recovery or would like additional information, please contact Jason Marshall or Joel Althoff at 877-723-8688 or visit www.infrastructuretech.net.

Hooray for the Irish!

As it seems once every year, the celebration where saints and sinners alike change their national heritage--at least for 24 hours and indulge in strange wearing attire and take to talking about "wee people." Why? It's St. Patrick's Day of course! We all enjoy the humor to which the Irish look at life and life's situations. This year we once again have released a few zingers from the Irish treasury of humor.

Remember, you have to be able to laugh at yourself before you can laugh at others!!

An Englishman, an Irishman and a Scotsman were reading a newspaper article about which nationalities' brains were for sale for transplant purposes. An Irishman or a Scotsman's brain could be bought for £500 but an Englishman's brain cost £10,000. "That proves," said the Englishman, "that the English are much cleverer than Irishmen or Scotsmen."
"No, it doesn't," said the Irishman. "It just means that an Englishman's brain has never been used."

A petty thief, a teacher and a lawyer die in a plane crash and go up to Heaven together. When they get there they are stopped by St. Peter who says, "Sorry lads, it's crowded up here, you need to answer a question correctly or else you can't get in."
He looks at the teacher and asks, "What was the name of the famous ocean-liner that sank after hitting an iceberg?"
"Oh, that's easy," the teacher replies, "The Titanic."
So St. Peter lets him in to Heaven.
Next he turns to the petty thief. "How many died on that ship?" St. Peter asks.
"Oooh, that's tough, but I saw the movie, and I think it was 1,500."
St. Peter steps aside and the thief walks into Heaven.
Finally, St. Peter turns to the lawyer and says, "Name them."

Irish Toasts

- ∞ May the roof above you never fall in, And those gathered beneath it never fall out.
- ∞ Here's to health, peace and prosperity. May the flower of love never be nipped by the frost of disappointment, nor shadow of grief fall among your family and friends.
- ∞ May you be rich in blessings, slow to make enemies and quick to make friends. And may you know nothing but happiness from this day forward.
